My name is Juan David Ossa, I'm writing to your advertisement for a Consumer Satisfaction Manager posted on LinkedIn. I have an extensive and diverse background in sales and client service, in addition to an excellent track record of leveraging my business administration skills to successfully support daily operations. Now I'm interested in putting these skills to work for Barclays.

My in-depth understanding of customer and consumer dynamics has enabled me to consistently implement successful responses to new challenges, support revenue generation and contribute multiple team-based initiatives. As a well pro-active multitasker, I have held responsibility for a wide range of functions, including sales and marketing strategies, client relationship and problem resolution.

Some of my career highlights include:

- Maintained and business through introduction of new products and services, expanding business opportunities with new natural and corporate customers, providing professional solutions for their needs.
- Prospected and built relationships, amassing strong customer base with natural and corporate customers.
- Obtained outstanding results fulfilling sales budgets.

Please see my attached resume for further illustration and details. I consider I can leverage my expertise and successes to provide significant value to your organization, I look forward to arranging a time to discuss how I can help you achieve your business objectives.

Thank you, in advance, for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

CAMILO AGUDELO MARÍN
